ATTENTION Whitestown Legacy Core Residents:

The Town of Whitestown is applying for a Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) through the Indiana Office of Community & Rural Affairs (IOCRA) for a Stormwater Grant and we need your help!

Rural communities, like Whitestown, have many pressing needs that require financial assistance. The CDBG Program is a federally funded grant program that benefits communities, like Whitestown, with projects such as planning studies, improvements to community centers, wastewater, stormwater, water, roads, bridges, etc. In order for communities to receive grant dollars, combined income levels must be provided for those households benefiting from the grant.

There are 164 households that have been identified in the Legacy Core stormwater project area.

In the next several weeks, each Legacy Core household will receive a survey. In order to determine if we're eligible to apply for grant dollars to help with the stormwater project, EACH household must complete and return the survey.

We've heard you and we're doing what we can! But we need your participation with the survey to apply for stormwater grant dollars. The survey will only take a few minutes of your time.

If we do not receive your initial survey, a reminder survey will be mailed. Every time the surveys are mailed, it costs the taxpayers money for the material and postage, so your reply to the initial survey is greatly appreciated!

All information provided will be kept confidential and only a collective summary will be included in the grant application. Official representatives of the Town will never ask for any personally identifiable information such as your social security number or bank account information.

Thank you for helping!
